Amy Malo joined HudsonLake in August 2013 having worked for more than five years in employee engagement and communication, brand development and public relations as well as office administration.

Prior to joining HudsonLake, Amy served the U.S. House of Representatives in Washington, D.C. from 2011 to 2013 as an executive assistant/scheduler and office manager for former U.S. Congressman Tom Latham of Iowa. While in Congressman Latham's office, Amy maintained the Congressman's official schedule and related records, briefed the Congressman on all scheduling activities, and assisted to prep the Congressman for press, interviews, and conference statements. She also served as the acting liaison between the Member and other Members, Appropriations committee staff, White House, and government offices and agencies to coordinate events, logistics or to arrange for the Member's attendance.

Before moving to the U.S. House of Representatives, Amy worked at the U.S. Chamber of Commerce in Washington, D.C., where she developed and executed the strategic external and internal communications and marketing plans for various advocacy and training programs dedicated to local and state chambers of commerce and industry trade associations, including the Institute for Organization Management (IOM) programs. Amy began her career at the U.S. Chamber in the communications department where she contributed to the media and internal relations strategy, supported Chamber spokesmen and conducted research ahead of the 2008 presidential election cycle.

Amy holds a B.A. in strategic communications from Miami University, Oxford, OH.
